ON FAVORITE BIBLE VERSES, AND THE GOD-MAN

Copyright 2015 By John B. Reynolds (john@jrwrites.com)

I wrote a couple of weeks ago about how I recently attended a contemporary Christian concert at Willow Creek. Midway through the show, the lead performer Chris Tomlin entertained questions from the audience which apparently had been submitted before the concert began. I remember only one: What's your favorite Bible verse? But I also remember Tomlin's answer. John 18:6. The chapter in its entirety speaks of Christ's arrest in the garden. Here, Jesus has just arrived with his disciples and Judas shows up, too. In my Bible, "Judas took the cohort as well as guards supplied by the chief priests and Pharisees" and per the footnote, cohort "seems to refer to Roman troops, the full cohort of 600 soldiers or the maniple of 200 under their tribune"). Either way, a lot. Jesus asks the cohort, "Who is it you want?" They respond, "Jesus the Nazorean," Jesus responds, "I am he." And per Tomlin's favorite verse, "As Jesus said to them, 'I am he,' they retreated slightly and fell to the ground."

Tomlin said he likes the verse so much because it speaks of Christ's power: at his mere pronouncement that he is the Nazorean the cohort is seeking, the entire Roman guard falls to the ground. I bring this up because I actually have two favorite Bible verses, and each of them displays quite another side of this Jesus we proclaim as Lord. The first--John 11:35--is contained in John's account of Jesus at the tomb of Lazarus (I remember reading somewhere once that it's the shortest verse in all of Scripture): "And Jesus wept." My other favorite passage--Luke 24:41--is found in today's Gospel. Coming into the verse, Jesus appears to the eleven who are still confused and afraid after having seen him die and after having heard reports that he is alive again. His friends are frightened and think they are seeing a ghost. Jesus assures them that he is flesh and bones, then, in Luke 24:41, he asks them, "Have you anything here to eat?" Of course he's hungry. Probably hasn't eaten for days...

Yes, Jesus walks on water, calms the sea, raises up the dead. But these are very Godly things, so while I believe in them, I don't understand them. To weep at the loss of a friend, however? To want something to eat? I understand these things very well; I'm guessing most of us do. And this is our God, our Lord, our Savior. So if he knows of grief and hunger, he knows of you and me. In today's Gospel, when Jesus appears to his friends after two of the disciples tell the rest about how they saw him on their way to Emmaus, he greets them with the words, "Peace be with you." These are the same words Jesus said when he appeared to them in Thomas's absence. He said it to them twice, in fact. And he said it to them again days later in Thomas's presence. I am an anxious man in many ways. But when I calm myself, I find peace in Jesus because as the second reading says, "Jesus Christ is the righteous one. He is expiation for our sins." And he can knock down the entire Roman guard, for goodness sake. But I find peace in the Christ, too, because he knows me. Really knows me. Really knows all of us. So...anybody up for a sandwich?

The Road To Emmaus

HOLY FATHER'S MONTHLY PRAYER INTENTION

UNIVERSAL: That people may learn to respect creation and care for it as a gift of God.

EVANGELIZATION: That persecuted Christians may feel the consoling presence of the Risen Lord and the solidarity of all the Church.

YEAR OF SACRAMENTS • ONE WORD AT A TIME

Suffer

©Thinkstock.com

The Martyrology is a thick book that contains entries for every day of the year. Each day lists the men and women, boys and girls across two thousand years who have given their lives in witness to their faith in Jesus Christ. It is an impressive assembly of countless witnesses to the faith.

Most probably, we will not be called to shed our blood in witness to our faith. We will, most definitely, have to suffer in some way because of our faith in Jesus Christ. In the Gospels, Jesus clearly tells his disciples that there is a cost in following him. Of course, they will be joyful and full of hope in him, but they will also endure the difficulties of misunderstanding, contempt, perhaps even persecution. In short, suffering is an inevitable part of discipleship. To support us in our suffering, he gives us his Holy Spirit in the sacrament of Confirmation.

POETRY CORNER

As part of their poetry unit in language arts, eighth graders created poetry booklets of their original poems. All students wrote various styles of poems including: Praise, Simile, Life, Haiku, and Free Verse. Students experimented with figures of speech and poetic devices in their poems. Their booklets also included covers, tables of contents, and graphics. Then each student participated in the 2015 Christ Our Savior American Idol Poet Contest sponsored by Mrs. Lusin. Students read their poems aloud in class and classmates voted. The six finalists included: Iyasha Childress, Michael Ogunfowokan, Jalen Walsh, Nia Sandifer, Arinze Egbuna, and Cheyenne Rios. Finally, two poets, Jalen Walsh and Cheyenne Rios, faced off in the Poetry Slam Battle Challenge. These finalists had one day to write a "Tribute to Words" poem. All students voted again. We are proud to announce Jalen Walsh as the 2015 Christ Our Savior American Idol Poet. Jalen and Cheyenne each received cash prizes, certificates, and ribbons.
